Foreword

South Carolina has developed one of the nation's best and most comprehensive used motor oil recycling programs targeting do-it-yourselfers (DIYers), that is, those who change their own motor oil. Consider this: DIYers in South Carolina recycled more than 1 million gallons of used motor oil in 2004 and more than 11 million gallons since 1990.

There are a variety of factors that have contributed to this success, but perhaps none more than convenience.

Through the combined efforts of state and local governments as well as the private sector, nearly 800 used motor oil collection sites have been established throughout the state. The sheer number of sites certainly makes it easy to recycle used motor oil and other related products (i.e., used oil filters and oil bottles). Most of these sites are at prominent locations – local government recycling drop-off sites, fire departments, automobile parts stores and other retailers – within the community. The visibility of these sites not only serves as a reminder of the importance of recycling used motor oil, used oil filters and oil bottles, but also of recycling in general.

There are lessons to be learned from the success of used motor oil recycling in South Carolina. When recycling is convenient, participation is likely to increase. When recycling programs and opportunities are visible, participation is likely to increase. When participation increases, the public comes to expect the availability of recycling programs. In the end, South Carolina is better for this.

S.C. Used Motor Oil Recycling Program for Do-It-Yourselfers: A SUCCESS!

- 1,164,835 GALLONS of used motor oil were collected for recycling in 2004.
- MORE THAN 11 MILLION GALLONS of used motor oil have been collected for recycling since 1990.
- ABOUT 800 USED MOTOR OIL COLLECTION SITES are throughout the state.
- MOST COUNTIES COLLECT USED OIL FILTERS AND OIL BOTTLES for recycling in addition to used motor oil.
- 31 OIL/GASOLINE MIXTURE COLLECTION TANKS have been established in 26 counties.
- 28 FARMER OIL COLLECTION TANKS have been established in 25 counties.

Why should I recycle?

Recycling used motor oil is one way that you can demonstrate your commitment to protecting the environment while conserving energy.

DHEC's Office of Solid Waste Reduction and Recycling (Office) serves as the central point of contact in the many and varied efforts to promote used motor oil recycling in South Carolina. Examples of the Office's outreach, educational and technical assistance services include:

- developing a nationally recognized, award-winning public awareness campaign featuring an animated "Motor Oil Guy," as part of the overall "Recycle Guys" campaign, to promote the importance of used motor oil recycling;
- distributing windshield service decals to DIYers reminding them to recycle used motor oil, used oil filters and oil bottles;
- distributing oil bottle drain racks to counties and municipalities to collect the last bit of motor oil from the bottles so that they can be mixed with other plastic bottles for recycling;
- continuing efforts to establish used motor oil recycling sites for small farmers in partnership with local governments;
- continuing efforts to establish oil/gasoline mixture collection sites in partnership with local governments;
- continuing to promote the "Green Driver Project" that targets students in high school driver education classes – presentations have been made to 36,420 students in more than 800 classrooms – with information on the recycling of used motor oil, filters and bottles, gasoline conservation and other environmental tips;
- awarding grants to local governments and schools to set up recycling and education programs with an emphasis on recycling used motor oil, filters and bottles; and
- making presentations to schools, civic groups and local governments.

These efforts are working. The used motor oil collection and recycling efforts in South Carolina are among the best in the nation. The amount of used motor oil collected in the state from DIYers has increased dramatically since the program began in 1990. In addition, South Carolina is among the first to offer "full-service" recycling centers, collecting used oil filters and bottles alongside used motor oil.

What are the benefits of recycling used oil?

Recycling keeps used motor oil from contaminating rivers, streams and lakes. It also saves energy and helps to reduce our dependency on foreign oil.

Purpose

In accordance with the S.C. Solid Waste Policy and Management Act of 1991 (Act), Section 44-96-160, the purpose of this report is to:

1. provide the number of used motor oil recycling sites available to the public in each county;
2. provide the number and location of used motor oil recycling sites in each county receiving grant funding from the Office; and
3. provide the amount of used motor oil collected from the public.

Recycling Used Motor Oil is Mandatory in South Carolina

As a result of the Act, it is illegal to dispose of used motor oil in landfills. In addition, according to the Pollution Control Act, it is illegal to dump used motor oil on the ground or in waterways. Violation of either of these laws can result in fines up to $200 and $10,000, respectively. To help DIYers properly recycle used motor oil, the Office has implemented a used motor oil grant program that helps local governments establish collection programs for their residents.

Used Motor Oil Regulation

A national used motor oil regulation became effective on July 28, 1995. The regulation was drafted from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's rule found in the Code of Federal Regulations (40 CFR 279). The South Carolina version of the regulation varies slightly from the federal rule. Statutory authority for the regulation is found in Section 44-96-160 of the S.C. Code of Laws, 1976.

The S.C. Used Oil Regulation (61-107.279) replaces the used oil reference in R.61-79.266 and 267, with the exception of the mixture rule regarding characteristic hazardous waste.

Any handler of used motor oil engaged in multiple activities (i.e., generating, transporting and marketing) must comply with all applicable provisions of the regulation. South Carolina requires all owners and operators of used motor oil processing, refining, off-specification burning and marketing facilities to obtain a permit from DHEC. Used motor oil recycling centers, aggregation points, transporters and transfer facilities must register with DHEC. All facilities are required to follow certain reporting and record keeping requirements.

Number of Used Motor Oil Recycling Sites

At the end of the 2004 calendar year, South Carolina had nearly 800 used motor oil collection sites available for DIYers. More than half the sites were established through DHEC's grant program. In addition to local government sites, Advance Auto Parts and AutoZone stores as well as other locations, accept used motor oil from DIYers. All sites accepting used motor oil from the public must be registered with DHEC to be in compliance with the Used Oil Regulation. Once these sites are registered, they are listed by county in South Carolina Recycles: A Directory of Recycling Programs. This publication can be requested by calling 1-800-768-7348. A listing of the oil recycling sites throughout the state also is provided on pages 17 – 39 of this report.

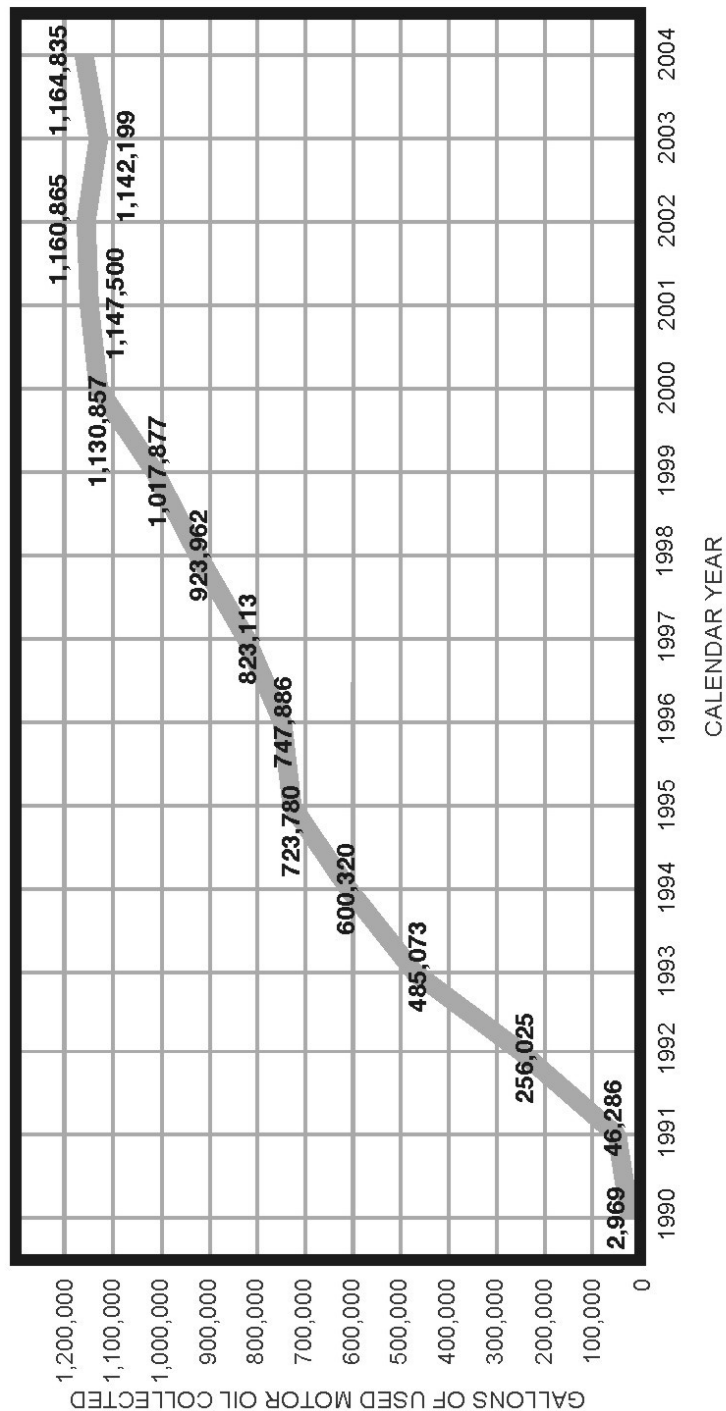

Gallons of Used Motor Oil Collected

In 2004, DIYers recycled 1,164,835 gallons of used motor oil at the nearly 800 locations throughout South Carolina. This marks the sixth consecutive year more than 1 million gallons of used motor oil was collected. Since the beginning of used motor oil collection in 1990, DIYers in South Carolina have recycled more than 11 million gallons of oil. The 10 counties that collected the most used motor oil in 2004 were Aiken, Anderson, Berkeley, Charleston, Dorchester, Greenville, Horry, Lexington, Spartanburg and York. Please see the graph on page 5 for an illustration of the growth of the state's used motor oil collection program.

What products are made from recycled motor oil?

Used motor oil can be reprocessed into fuel used in furnaces for heat or in power plants to generate electricity for homes, schools and businesses. It also can be used in industrial and utility boilers, mixed with asphalt and blended with marine fuels. Used motor oil also can be re-refined into lubricating oils that meet the same American Petroleum Institute/Society of Automotive Engineers (API/SAE) specifications as virgin motor oil.

Why is it important to DRAIN/CRUSH used OIL FILTERS?

- Used oil filters may contain from 4 OUNCES TO 1 QUART OF USED OIL.
- Drained/crushed oil filters can be recycled WITH OTHER METAL.
- Oil recovered from drained/crushed filters can be RECYCLED.

In addition to the collectors listed above, Wal-Mart reported that three of its stores in Greenville County accepted used motor oil from DIYers. The stores, however, did not provide the number of gallons collected specifically from DIYers and as a result are not included above. Other Wal-Mart stores, as well as other businesses, may also collect used motor oil from DIYers.

Used Oil Filters

Used oil filters are banned from landfill disposal in South Carolina unless they have been hot-drained or compacted to their smallest practical volume. Hot-draining is defined as draining the oil filter at or near engine operating temperature. The fact that used oil filters may contain from four ounces to one quart of used motor oil makes them a potential risk to the environment if disposed of in a landfill. As a result, they should be a priority for recycling programs seeking to expand their list of accepted recyclables.

The used oil filter recycling program began in 1994 and has seen exceptional growth over the past 10 years. The program began with three counties collecting filters; the number has increased to 45 counties in 2004. With the increase in the number of counties collecting used oil filters for recycling, so has the amount of filters, from 29 tons in 1994 to 321 tons in 2004. In addition, several counties now collect and market used oil filters with their white goods (i.e., large appliances) and/or other metals. With this being the case, not all used oil filters that are being recycled are being counted directly. Some may be included in the numbers for white goods and/or metals. The five counties that collected the most oil filters in 2004 were Dorchester, Jasper, Kershaw, Lexington and Spartanburg.

Motor Oil Bottles

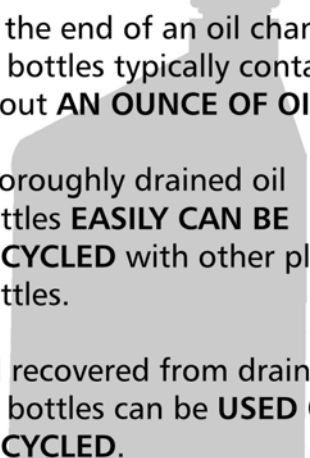

At the end of an oil change, oil bottles typically contain about an ounce of motor oil. If motor oil bottles are not thoroughly drained, they can contaminate other plastic bottles collected for recycling. One emphasis of the state's used motor oil recycling program is to continue to provide counties and municipalities with motor oil bottle drain racks for draining up to 50 oil bottles at one time as well as distributing home drain racks to DIYers. Most counties are now using these racks to drain the oil that is left in the bottle. Once drained, the motor oil bottles can be mixed with other pigmented high density polyethylene (HDPE) plastic for recycling.

South Carolina is one of the first states in the nation to target motor oil bottle recycling. The program began in 1995 when Lexington and Charleston counties participated in a motor oil bottle recycling project. Based on the response and results of the collection program, other counties have expanded their programs to include motor oil bottles. Nine years later, the pilot project has grown into a successful ongoing program with 40 counties collecting bottles.

Collected motor oil bottles are recycled into items such as flower pots and pallets. South Carolina continues to be a leader in its expansion of the used motor oil recycling program with the establishment of an oil bottle collection system, a plastic traditionally left out of the recycling system due to the potential contamination of oil.

In 2004, the counties collected more than 64 tons of motor oil bottles – a 33 percent increase from last year. In addition, most

Why is it important to DRAIN OIL BOTTLES?

- At the end of an oil change, oil bottles typically contain about AN OUNCE OF OIL.
 - Thoroughly drained oil bottles EASILY CAN BE RECYCLED with other plastic bottles.
 - Oil recovered from drained oil bottles can be USED OR RECYCLED.

counties now collect and market motor oil bottles with other pigmented HDPE plastic. As a result, many of the motor oil bottles that are being recycled are being counted in the HDPE plastic rather than the motor oil bottle numbers. From 2003 to 2004, the amount of HDPE plastic being recycled increased by more than 2,200 tons. The five counties that collected the most motor oil bottles in 2004 were Anderson, Clarendon, Darlington, Pickens and Sumter.

Farmer Oil

According to S.C. Solid Waste Management Regulation 61-107.279, farmers are considered small quantity generators of used motor oil and, as a result, must follow certain management practices.

- Farmers who generate more than 25 gallons of used motor oil in a month are required to store the oil in a container with no leaks or visible rusting.
- The container must be labeled "Used Motor Oil." Used motor oil generated from farm machinery is not considered DIY used motor oil and may not be disposed of in DIY collection tanks.
- Farmers who transport more than 55 gallons of used motor oil at any time are required to register with DHEC.

Farmers who generate an average of 25 gallons of used motor oil per month or less from vehicles or machinery used on the farm in a calendar year are not subject to the requirements of this regulation but should follow best management standards and practices in handling used motor oil.

To assist these farmers with the proper management of used motor oil generated on the farm, DHEC continues to encourage local governments to establish used motor oil recycling sites for farmers. Agricultural oil tanks typically hold 600 gallons of oil and are fitted with a pump and hose in an effort to make it easier for farmers to deliver up to 55 gallons of used motor oil at one time. The agricultural oil tanks are serviced by Santee Cooper.

Since the farmer oil program began in 1998, 28 farmer oil recycling sites have been established in 25 counties. The sites are in the following counties: Abbeville, Aiken, Barnwell, Cherokee, Chesterfield, Clarendon, Darlington, Dillon, Dorchester, Fairfield, Georgetown, Greenville, Greenwood, Hampton, Horry, Kershaw, Lancaster, Lee,

Did you know?

According to the S.C. Department of Motor Vehicles, 2,411,988 automobiles were registered in the state in fiscal year 2004.

Newberry, Oconee, Orangeburg, Pickens, Sumter, Williamsburg and York. Five additional counties received grant funding to set up farmer oil tanks in fiscal year 2005.

Oil/Gasoline Mixtures

South Carolina continues to expand the used motor oil recycling program by adding oil/gasoline mixture collection sites to the county programs. The oil/gasoline mixture tanks typically hold 500 gallons and are designed to accept motor oil, gasoline and oil/gasoline mixtures from lawn equipment and recreational vehicles (e.g.: boats and motorcycles). The oil/gasoline mixture tanks are serviced by Santee Cooper.

The requirements for establishing an oil/gasoline mixture collection site are more stringent than for typical used motor oil collection sites. In particular, oil/gasoline mixture collection sites must:

- meet the requirements of the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA 30) Codes and Standards and
- be approved by a local Fire Marshal or the Office of the State Fire Marshal.

Thirty oil/gasoline mixture collection sites have been established in 26 counties throughout the state. The sites are located in the following counties: Aiken, Allendale, Anderson, Barnwell, Beaufort, Berkeley, Calhoun, Charleston, Cherokee, Clarendon, Dorchester, Fairfield, Georgetown, Greenville, Greenwood, Hampton, Kershaw, Lexington, Newberry, Oconee, Pickens, Saluda, Spartanburg, Sumter, Williamsburg and York. Four additional counties received grant funding to set up oil/gasoline mixture tanks in fiscal year 2005.

Grant Funding

Through fiscal year 2004, DHEC's Office of Solid Waste Reduction and Recycling (Office) has provided an 11-year total of $9,411,943.97 to local governments for the establishment of:

- used motor oil collection and recycling sites;
- curbside used motor oil collection and recycling programs;
- used motor oil filter collection and recycling programs;
- motor oil bottle collection and recycling programs;
- oil/gasoline mixture collection and recycling programs;
- farmer oil collection and recycling programs;
- oil bottle draining programs (drain racks); and
- public education programs.

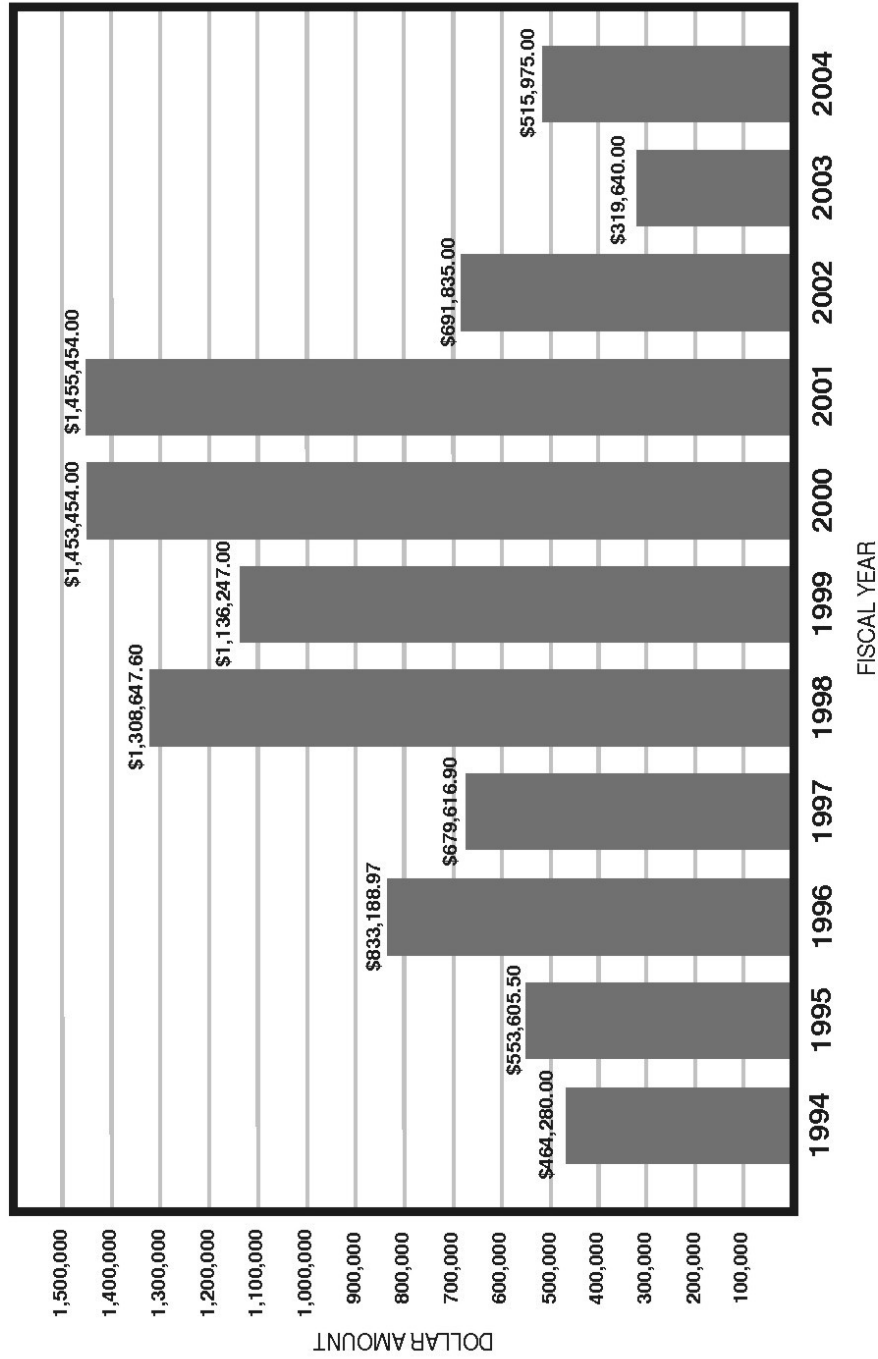

The Office also provided counties and local governments with technical assistance and public education materials to promote used motor oil, used oil filter and oil bottle recycling in South Carolina.

Please see the chart on page 11 for a year-by-year breakdown of grant assistance provided to local governments. A brief summary of the individual grants awarded in fiscal year 2004 is available on pages 12 through 16.

Conclusion

While DHEC's Office of Solid Waste Reduction and Recycling is proud of the success of South Carolina's recycling efforts and fully expects the collection and recycling of used motor oil, used oil filters and motor oil bottles to continue to increase, improper disposal of used motor oil still presents a serious threat to our state's public health, environment and economic stability. South Carolina must continue to promote the proper handling of used motor oil and related items to ensure the quality of life South Carolinians have come to expect.
